MUSIC AT CULFORD

We are delighted to be performing again in a lunch-time concert at St. Edmundsbury Cathedral. This will be our first public performance with an audience for more than a year, which makes this occasion even more special. However, during lockdown we have still kept busy recording online concerts and performances, which we have been able to share with parents over social media and many of our pupils have taken online music examinations.

We have also continued to develop our music facilities at Culford over the last year, creating a bespoke recording studio, complete with live room and control room with the latest computerised digital recording equipment. This has proved to be an invaluable resource and we have also been pleased to appoint a dedicated Head of Creative Technology to run the studio and support all aspects of creative technology across all three schools.

Our performers today are taken from two year groups, years 10 and 12. All of the string players are in year 10, together with our trombonist Gregory Veal and the remaining performers are from year 12. The String Ensemble is coached by our Head of Strings, Jan Halen and comprises: Imogen Gotch, Logan McElfresh, Charlotte Mole and Lara Sykes on violin with Oscar Adams on viola. We are also grateful to Nigel Tuffs for playing a duet with his guitar student Lara.
